

Times Remembered Betty A. Young
BYoung505@Windstream.Net

It has been a busy week for me. Along with canning and freezing I have been keeping my Grandson, Colton while his Mom and Dad were attending training for the upcoming school year. His daycare at the high school where his Mommy and Daddy teach doesn't open until the first day of school. So, I have kept him for three days. Believe me he's a hand full and asks so many questions for a four year old.

My Tahoe knows the way to Georgetown all by itself since Colton came along. I took him to another basketball camp conducted by the boy's basketball coaches last week and then he came home with me and spent the night and we went to yard sales on Friday. He loves yard sales and never has enough toys according to him; especially cars.

I made dill pickles this past week, put green beans and a few tomatoes in the freezer. Since I've returned home today, (Monday), I have been putting peaches in the freezer. My kitchen is pretty sticky right now where peach juice accidentally dripped on the floor, but the air is thick with the sweet smell of peaches bubbling in sugary syrup that makes it all worth while

I gave the kitchen a "lick and a promise," as my mom used to say, to write my article. Over the counter top, there are a few splotches of peach juice decorating the walls, too. I will finish cleaning the kitchen and mop after I finish this article.

Buckets of left over peelings are sitting on the deck waiting to be scattered in the woods for the critters when Bob gets home from basketball practice.

Guess what? The other night I placed the peaches on the patio table to ripen and I forgot to bring them in that night. We had just gotten into bed, and I told Bob, "I hear something on the back porch." I said, "I forgot to bring the peaches inside."

We both jumped up and ran downstairs, and sure enough a raccoon was sitting on top of the table getting ready to have himself a nice feast. But when we opened the back door, he took off along with a possum that was close by, planning to get his share of peaches. We rescued the peaches just in time.

It's nice to have home-made batches of jam, preserves, tomatoes and packages of green beans and peaches sitting in the kitchen.

en. It is worth all the hard work. Someone once asked me why I bother to can and freeze food all the time when you can buy the same thing at the grocery store for a few more cents and you don't have to do all the hard work.

All of the hard work is exactly why I bother. Yes, it would be easier to drive to the grocery store in town. Canning and freezing is a big job, but the taste of the fruits and vegetables that come packed inside gray aluminum cans, and (sometimes made in China) don't hold a candle to all the colorful jars filled with a season's worth of garden produce.

No amount of money could ever buy the pride felt as I look at the fruits of my labor . . . or when someone tastes jam or salsa and requests a jar. They also make great little gifts for Christmas or special occasions too.

Nothing matches the joy shared by friends and family working together in the kitchen preserving memories.

Thank You

We would like to take this time to express our most sincere thanks for your many acts of kindness during these last several months. The delicious food, beautiful cards, kind words, flowers; and most of all, your prayers, were greatly appreciated.

A special thanks to Toler Funeral Home's staff for the warm and inviting place of viewing. Also, special thanks to the Irvine First Church of God, Bro. Glenn Sizemore, Bro. Todd St. John, and Bro. Elder Goble for their kind words and remembrance; as well as, Cassidy and Kennedy Flynn, Mark Bishop and Sheila Hayes for their touching songs, and Michelle Osborne for her beautiful piano playing.

Special thanks go to the pallbearers who so lovingly carried Mom on her final journey here on Earth. The service was absolutely perfect! The special thanks continue with the delicious bereavement dinner provided by the Irvine First Church of God and others.

For those who donated to Hospice Care Plus and Gideon Bible, what a way to keep her legacy alive. She blessed us all so much by her beautiful smile, sweet spirit, and, most of all, her strong faith in God. May God richly bless you for our time, love and support as He has blessed us.

Thank you again for everything you did for our family during her sickness and journey on home.

"Dad," said a small child getting ready for Sunday school, "I want to be just like you. When will I be old enough not to have to go to church?"

The father blushed with embarrassment and said, "Come on son, let's go to church together."

Most parents are anxious that their children go to church. Unfortunately, many parents do not realize how important it is for them to set the proper example for their children. Going to church is one of the most important examples parents can set for their children.

It demonstrates the value and priority they place on worshiping together.

Being a Christian without going to church is like a soldier going into battle without an army or a violinist preparing for a concert without any accompaniment. A family trying to live life without worshiping together is like a ship with no rudder.

The Apostle Paul wisely said, "Let us not neglect our church meetings, as some people do, but encourage and warn each other, especially now that the day of His coming back is drawing near."

What Law Are We Living Under Today?

by BOB CASEY, Preacher, Church of Christ

Nearly every time that you hear a TV preacher make his pitch, one would think that we are still to live and practice in worship, the things that were taught under the Old Testament Law of Moses. A reading of the Hebrews letter, chapters 7-10 will plainly show that we are living now under a better covenant based upon a better promise made possible by the shed blood of our Saviour Jesus Christ. The apostle Paul had to deal with the false teaching of the Judaizers who taught that in order to go to heaven one must keep the Old Testament Law of Moses as well as the Law of Christ. In the book of Galatians Paul plainly taught that this was a great error, because the Law of Moses and the Law of Christ could not co-exist in the worship of God today. In Galatians 5:1 the apostle said: "Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage, or 'the Old Testament Law.'" He also said in chapter 3, verse 11: "But that no man is justified by the Law in the sight of God, it is evident: for, the just shall live by faith." He goes onto to say in verses 26-27, "For ye are all the children of God by faith in Jesus Christ. For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ."

What is the danger then when one attempts to worship the Lord using the Old Testament as their guide. Notice Galatians 5:4 "Christ is become of no effect unto you, whosever ye are justified by the Law of Moses, ye are fallen from grace." Romans 8:1-7 plainly reveals that Christ hath made us free from the law of sin and death offering (verse 3) saying: "For what the Law could not do in that it was weak through the flesh, and for sin condemned sin in the flesh." In Mark 15:37-38 when Jesus died upon the cross the great curtain that separated the Holy Place from the common people was split from the top to the bottom declaring that the way of salvation was now being made possible by the shed blood of Jesus Christ, forever going away with the Old Testament worship. How can one today interject the Old Testament Law into modern worships. First, by using things not authorized by our Lord, such as bands, choirs, special entertainment, etc. Even when Acts 17:25 says that God is not worshipped with things made by men's hands. Secondly, by worshipping under man made creeds, man made names, when Acts 11:26 calls all the obedient Christians, also the churches were only called the churches of Christ in Romans 16:16. But today many are still practicing the Old Testament Law by practicing of giving of a 10 percent, when Hebrews 8:6 plainly says we are now living under a better covenant established upon a greater promise. So today under the law of Christ true believers by I Corinthians 16:1-2 to give as pleasing unto our Lord. But still there are other things also. Attend with us and we will discuss them.
