Maudie's Naughties

Milk Bath

Trixie is talking to a girl at work and can't help but notice how pretty and beautiful the co-worker's skin is. So she asks her outright what makes her skin so soft and beautiful.

"Well, once a week I fill a bathtub up with milk and soak in it."

So Trixie picks up Mitzie and they drive out to the farm to talk to Howard's dad about it.

"I'd like to buy a lot of milk," says Trixie.

"How much?" asks Farmer Green.

"Well, quite a lot because I'm going to soak in it."

"Do you need pasturized?" he asks.

"No," replies Trixie. "Just up to my shoulders."

Lost Contact Lens

A teenager loses a contact lens while playing basketball in his driveway. After a fruitless search, he tells his mother the lens is nowhere to be found.

Undaunted, she goes outside and in a few minutes, returns with the lens in her hand.

"How did you manage to find it, Mom?" the teenager asks.

"We weren't looking for the same thing," she replies. "You were looking for a small piece of plastic. I was looking for $150."

Root Hog or Die

All of us country people know what that means, whether it pertains to the farm, or trying to get by in this bad economy. You have to have raised hogs and fed them to know the true meaning, but "Root Hog or Die" seems to have more meaning to all of us, every day. But did you know who was the first person whom the phrase was attributed to -- Davy Crockett in 1834. He reportedly said in his biography, "We know'd that nothing more could happen to us if we went than if we staid, for it looked like it was to be starvation any way; we therefore determined to go on the old saying, root hog or die."

Snow Plows

Trixie is spending a couple of weeks with a cousin in Lexington. The night before the expected snowfall, they overhear the weather announcer telling everyone on that street to park on the even side of the street so the snow plow can get through. Trixie moves her car to the even side of the street.

The next night, they hear the announcer tell them to move all cars to the odd side of the street so the snowplows can finish their job.

"I wish they'd make up their mind," says Trixie. "I'm getting tired of moving my car to one side of the street, then the other."

"Well," says her cousin, "Why don't you just put it back in the garage."

Football

Pa takes Junior and Howard to their first football game. After the game, Pa asks them how they liked it and if they wanted to come back again.

"I don't think so," says Junior.

"Me neither," adds Howard. "I've never seen that big of a fight over such a piddly amount of money."

"What do you mean, fighting over money?" asks Pa.

"You know," says Junior. "The 25 cents. They went out there and flipped a coin and after one team got it, the other team went after them screaming, 'Get the quarter back, get the quarter back!'"

Haircut

Trixie walks into the beauty shop wearing headphones and asks to get her hair cut.

"You'll have to take those earphones off."

"I can't," answers Trixie. "I'll die if I take them off."

Trixie insists that she can't take the headphones off, so the hairdresser begins to cut Trixie's hair anyway. But it is very difficult with the headphones in the way, so, after a while, Trixie falls to sleep and the hairdresser decides to remove the headphones to make the job easier. Seconds after doing so, Trixie falls out of the chair into the floor. The hair dresser checks Trixie and sure enough, she isn't breathing. The hairdresser has no idea what to do, so she decides to check the headphones. She places them to her head and she hears, "Breathe in, breathe out, breathe in, breath out."

Visible Roots

Trixie and Mitzie become so sick of hearing blonde jokes that they cut and dye their hair. A few days later, as they are out driving around the countryside, Trixie stops the car to let a flock of sheep pass.

Admiring the cute woolly creatures, Mitzie says to the shepherd, "If I can guess how many sheep you have, can I take one?"

The shepherd, always the gentleman, says, "Sure!"

Mitzie thinks for a moment and, for no discernible reason, said, "268."

This being the correct number, the shepherd is, understandably, totally amazed, and exclaims, "You're right! O.K., I'll keep my end of the deal. Take your pick of my flock."

Mitzie and Trixie carefully consider the entire flock and finally they pick the one that is by far cuter and more playful than any of the others.

When she is done, the shepherd turns to her and says, "O.K., now I have a proposition for you. If I can guess your true hair color, can I have my dog back?"

Kiwanis Club of Irvine-Ravenna

Annual Radio/TV Auction Announced

The Kiwanis Club of Irvine-Ravenna has released the date for its 12th Annual Radio and TV Auction. It will be held Saturday, October 5, 2013 at the Estill County Middle School.

As we begin to make plans for this event, the club wishes to extend a sincere "thank you" to the people of Estill County and applaud you for manner in which you have so generously supported our auction.

We have a special appreciation for Bunt Gross Auto Sales, Citizens Guaranty Bank and Davis Law Office PSC, because they have served as corporate sponsors since the first auction in 2002.

The funds generated by last year's auction have allowed the club, in its current fiscal year, to invest over $15,000 in a variety of programs that serve the young people of Estill County. To continue this level of support, we need your help.

So, circle October 5, 2013 on your calendar and look for more announcements about the auction in coming weeks
