David Harrison hung umbrellas at the former Mack Theatre Building last week. The building is now owned by River City Players, and is being renovated as funds become available. RCP decorates the front of the Mack regularly. The current them is "Showers of Gratitude."

Two talented young actors for River City Players, Candance Pearson and Leslie Harris, created the mural that is on display in front of the former Mack Theatre Building.

State police pursuit begins on a one-lane road, ends with arrest

A police pursuit began on a one-lane road at Hargett Thursday afternoon which resulted in one arrest.

Trooper Ty Robinson stated he met a 2008 Red, Chevrolet Colorado traveling on Hargett Parvin Road. He forced the vehicle to stop because it is a one-lane road.

The trooper said he asked to see the driver's license, and he was unable to show it.

As Robinson got out of his cruiser, he said the driver put his truck in reverse and began backing up. He got back in his cruiser, and the driver stopped the truck.

When he got back out of his cruiser again, he stated the driver backed up again, getting further away from him.

As Robinson was getting back in his cruiser, he said the driver put his truck in drive and began driving toward the cruiser at a dangerous speed. The trooper was forced to put the cruiser in reverse and collided with a tree.

However, Robinson said he was able to turn his cruiser around and start pursuing the vehicle.

He said the truck continued at a dangerously high and reckless speed on the Hargett Parvin Road until it made a right turn onto Cressy Road.

Ravenna council continues discussion of ordinance on dogs within the city limits

by CATHY DAWES
 Tribune Staffwriter

The Ravenna council met on Monday night and discussed potential revisions to a dog ordinance that was written in 1998.

Mayor Valerie Flinchum said that half the ordinance had been repealed or revised and provided council members with a 38 page document from the state pertaining to dogs.

She said that she had also been in contact with several surrounding cities and one thing they had in common was a muzzle order. The order states that any dog that is deemed vicious would have to wear a muzzle when it was on public property.

Councilman Budd Tucker asked about the vicious category and who would decide whether a dog was vicious or not.

Flinchum said that would be up to the council to decide. Tucker said that he didn't feel like a dog should be categorized by the breed. He felt like it should be a case by case scenario.

Several audience members had questions regarding the ordinance, but Flinchum reminded them that it was not up for discussion. They could speak with council members after the meeting was over.

Flinchum said that there had been an incident at the park over the weekend with the rest rooms. She said that through the week Brandon Long unlocks and cleans the rest rooms, but the problem is on the weekends when he is not working.

been good to work with.

Councilman Tobo Bryant agreed and said they could try this. If it doesn't work then they could always go back to the way they are doing it now.

Flooded garage forces Irvine to use Fleet cards

by CATHY DAWES
 Tribune Staffwriter

The Irvine council discussed getting Fleet cards for gasoline purchases on Monday night.

Mayor James Gross said that since the flood there has been no electricity at the city garage, therefore, anyone who needs gas has to turn on the generator to get the pumps to work.

He added it has been a hassle and with the Fleet cards they would save 15 percent.

They wouldn't have the cost of maintenance on the pumps. Most recently Gross said that a nozzle had to be replaced which cost approximately $50.

Gross said that most gas stations in the area accept Fleet cards. He would like for the city to do business mainly with Hardy's BP considering their office is located in the city, and they have been good to work with.
