

Estill County ATC Partners In Education Introduction

TANNER

STANTON, KENTUCKY

Tanner Chrysler Products in Stanton Kentucky was opened in November 2000 by Darrell and Jennifer Billings. During those 20 plus years they have strived to be partners with all of their surrounding communities from academics to athletics. When the idea of the Area Technology Center was discussed Darrell was a proponent of all assets from the beginning.

The opportunity to provide life skills to young men and women in our communities has been a long-time principle of the Billings family.

Darrell has been a lifelong supporter of vocational education and has served as Chairman of the KY FFA Foundation raising thousands of dollars for vocational learning while his wife Jennifer has been a 25-plus year educator in the Arts.

Darrell commented, "We are excited about the opportunities the Area Technology Center will provide to Estill and Powell County students. The value of hands on learning with other facets of the educational system can't be valued enough. My father always believed that we are responsible for preparing our replacements. I share that belief every day and am proud to be able to support it."

Tanner Chrysler Products looks forward to hiring and promoting the associates generated thru this center and the stories of success we can share as we prepare Engineers, Pirates, Cardinals, Owls, Bobcats and all to make our part of the world even better.

Tanner Chrysler Products has committed $3,000 annually in funding to the Estill County Area Technology Center. Thanks to Superintendent Saylor, his board and staff for their hard work and diligence in making this a reality.
