2015 Leadership LEAP Class Graduates

On Friday, October 16th, the 2015 class of Leadership LEAP held their graduation at Cathedral Domain in Lee County.

The group has spent the last eight months together learning about the assets and challenges facing our region, networking, growing together as a team, and making plans to be better leaders as they help move our region into the future.

Their class project, #IamEasternKY, has already attracted nearly 5,000 followers on facebook. The project is an initiative to dispel negative stereotypes about Eastern Kentucky and highlight the positives about our region and its people. More about the project can be found on facebook or at IamEasternKY.com.

Leadership LEAP is a multi-county leadership development program led by a steering committee with representatives from the participating counties and is an operating division of Estill Development Alliance. If you live and/or work in Estill, Jackson, Lee, Owsley, Powell or Wolfe counties and are interested in learning more about participating in LEAP, you can visit EstillCountyKY.
