Seeing Double

“Doctor,” says Ed, “I’m seeing double!”

“Let me look at you,” says the doctor. “Sit down on that chair !”

“Which one?” replies Ed.

Overheard In A Doctor’s Office

“That’s my 3-IN-ONE® Oil. I put it on everything!”

The Sky Is Falling

One day the first grade teacher is reading the story of Chicken Little to her class. She comes to the part of the story where Chicken Little tries to warn the farmer.

She reads, “. . . and so, Chicken Little goes up to the farmer and says, “The sky is falling, the sky is falling!”

The teacher pauses, then asks the class, “And what do you think that farmer said?”

One little girl raises her hand and says, “Holy Crap! A talking chicken!”

Is It True?

Junior asks, “Is it true, Pa? I heard that in some parts of the world a man doesn’t know his wife until he marries her.”

“That happens here, too, son!”

Where Are We At Now?

Two guys are riding in a car, arguing about how to say the name of the city that they are in.

One says “Louieville” and the other “Louiseville.”

They go on arguing and arguing, until they come upon a fast-food restaurant.

They pull up to the drive-thru and say, “Tell me the name of the place where we are right now . . . really, really slowly.”

The worker goes, “Bur-ger-King.”

What Time Do You Open?

A bar owner locks up his place at 2:00 a.m. and goes home to sleep. He has been in bed only a few minutes when the phone rings. “What time do you open up in the morning?” he hears an obviously inebriated man inquire.

The owner is so furious, he slams down the receiver and goes back to bed. A few minutes later there is another call and he hears the same voice, asking the same question.

“Listen, the owner shouts, “There’s no sense in asking me what time I open because I wouldn’t let a person in your condition in . . .”

“I don’t want to get in,” the caller interjects. “I want to get out.”

Taxi Driver

A taxi cab is parked in front of a bar when Trixi, Bambi and a friend come running out and jump into the back seat, telling the driver they need a ride downtown. The taxi driver notices they are wasted and just wants them out of his cab before one of them gets sick. So, he starts the motor and lets it run a few minutes, then switches it off and says, “We are here,” hoping neither will realize that the cab hasn’t moved an inch.

Trixi gets out of the cab and thanks the driver. Their friend gets out of the cab, thanks the driver and gives him $20.00. Bambi gets out of the cab, slaps the crap out of the driver and says, “Next time, watch your speed. You nearly killed us!”

Trapped!

Trixi, Bambi and their friend decide to spend the night in a hotel. The next morning the desk clerk gets a call. It’s Trixie, crying hysterically, saying, “We can’t get out of our room!”

“Why not?” the clerk asks. “Is the door stuck?”

Trixie sobs, “It has a sign on it that says ‘Do Not Disturb’!”

Everything But The Kitchen Sink

As they approach the line at the airport, the husband glances at the pile of luggage and says to the wife, “Why didn’t you bring the piano, too?”

“Are you trying to be funny?” she replies.

“No,” he sighs. “That’s where I left the tickets.”

Here To There

Trixie is planning a vacation, so she calls up the airport and asks, “How long does it take to fly from Lexington to Las Vegas?”

The busy attendant says, “Just a minute, madam . . .” and lays the phone aside.

“Wow,” says Trixie, as she hangs up the phone. “They make planes faster every year.”

How Old Are You?

A lawyer stands in front of the judge, charged with over-billing the clients he has represented over the years.

“How old are you?” asks the judge.

The lawyer replies, “56!”

“That’s odd,” says the judge. “According to the number of hours for which you have billed your clients, we had estimated your age to be about 178.”

Letters To The Editor

Why I’m A Fan of Family Resource Youth Service Centers

Family Resource and Youth Service Centers (FRYSC) across the state of Kentucky are celebrating 25 years of successfully working with students, families, and community partners to remove educational barriers to student achievement. Celebrations are occurring across the state, focused on creating awareness of the success of these programs and to say “thank you” to the countless partners, families, and volunteers who have played such a vital role in the success of FRYSCs. Among those celebrations was a “Why I’m a Fan of FRYSC” essay contest sponsored by the Family Resource and Youth Services Centers of Kentucky Coalition.

Thirty students from the Estill County Middle School (ECMS) participated in the essay contest. Below is one essay by ECMS student, Dean Madeline Hardy.

The Family Resource Youth Service Center (FRYSC) has been around for 25 years this year, 2015. There are currently 823 centers in Kentucky in 1181 schools and they serve over 626,696 students.

As we celebrate this big birthday we are reminded that, we are fans of many things. According to Wikipedia, a fan is a person who is enthusiastically devoted to something or somebody, such as a band, a sports team, a genre, a book or an entertainer. Collectively, the fans of a particular object or person constitute its fan base or fandom. They may show their enthusiasm in a variety of ways, such as by promoting the object of their interest, being members of a fan club, holding or participating in fan conventions, or writing fan mail. We all have a favorite team, a favorite sport or even a favorite event, but have you ever thought about your favorite school program? My favorite school program is the Family Resource Youth Service Center at my school, Estill County Middle School.

What is the Family Resource Center and what do they do? The primary goal of the Family Resource center is to remove nonacademic barriers so that it aids in learning by enhancing student academic success. This means making everything better for a student that faces obstacles that are out of their control. The main idea of Family Resource Youth Service Center is the development and wellbeing of a student lies within the structure of the family and we all should support every family as they raise their children. Each center across Kentucky offers a unique blend of programs and services to serve the special needs of their students and their family client populations.

The Family Resource Youth Service Center strives to meet the needs of all children and their families served by the Centers as a means to enhance student academic success.

The center at Estill County Middle School offers many programs and services determined by the needs of our population being served and our available resources. Some of the needs might be child care, health referrals, dental and vision referrals, career exploration, substance abuse education, mental health counseling, exercise programs or providing basic needs like food, clothing and proper shelter, even school supplies.

Our center at Estill County Middle School also sponsors Back to School Night- an evening to pick up schedules, meet teachers and tour the school, VERB-an after school program focusing on physical activity and healthy food choices, Family Fun Nights- a program to allow parents and students to spend quality time together while learning a useful skill, Reality Store- an experience geared for financial acknowledgement for the real world and the costs associated with it, Red Ribbon Week- a week full of fun themes focused on being drug free, Kick Butts –a campaign based on dangers of tobacco use and Back Pack Buddies- a program to provide food and nourishment to those who might not have food over the weekend.

Everyone can benefit from our Family Resource Youth Service Center; students, teachers, principals, administrators, parents, siblings and grandparents. FRYSC provides information, opportunities, experiences and help for any student and their family who might need it. Although Family Resource Youth Service Center has only been around for 25 years, I can only imagine the impact it has had on numerous families in our community. I hope you will join me in celebrating twenty five fabulous years of such a wonderful service provided to our community and I hope you will support our local centers and become their number one fan.

Thank You To All Customers of The Estill Farmers Market

Dear Editor,

As the president of the Estill County Farmers’ Market, I would like to extend a heartfelt “Thank You” to all of our customers this year, as well as Mayor Estine Tipton and the Ravenna City Council and the Fair Board for allowing us to use their space for the market. Supporting local farmers and local food growers is one way we can help to rebuild our communities, improve our health, as well as the local economy.

I would also like to invite more people to become growers and producers for our Kentucky Proud market. We currently participate in the Senior Farmers’ Market Nutritional Program, which provides $28 worth of vouchers to 160+ senior citizens throughout the county. This year, we had a hard time meeting the need for these seniors—although I’d say the crazy summer weather played some part in this—many seniors just couldn’t spend their vouchers because the produce was lacking. There are also other programs that I would like for our market to become certified in, such as the WIC Farmers’ Market Program, as well as to becoming eligible to accept EBT/SNAP benefits. But to be able to support these programs, we definitely need MORE farmer participation! Fresh eggs, honey, sweet peas, tomatoes, potatoes, sweet potatoes, green beans and corn are some of the fresh produce our customers look for.

We’ve been throwing around ideas about changing our market to an evening time, possibly in a location downtown. I would love to see our Farmers’ Market thrive—with a carnival-like atmosphere, lots of fresh & local produce, homemade items, learning workshops, kids activities as well as a place for local artists & crafters to display and sell their work. We will have organizational meetings to plan for the 2016 Farmers’ Market season beginning in January 2016. Please be on the lookout for specific dates and times! Email me if you have any questions or insights: hannahseaton2@gmail.com.

Thank you again,
Hannah Eaton
