LIBERAL OUTRAGE WHEN DONALD TRUMP IN THE LAST DEBATE, REFUSED TO SAY WHETHER OR NOT HE WOULD ACCEPT THE OUTCOME OF THE ELECTION

LIBERAL OUTRAGE OVER VIOLENT PROTESTERS NOT ACCEPTING THE OUTCOME OF THE ELECTION

Maudie's Naughties

Mowing the Grass

The preacher goes out to mow his lawn, but has trouble getting the mower started. A young boy on a bicycle stops by and watches for a couple of minutes. He asks, "What's wrong?"

The pastor answers, "I can't get this mower started. Do you know how?"

The boy replies, "Yep."

"Well, how do you do it? Tell me!", the preacher asks.

The kid replies, "You have to cuss it."

The preacher rises up indignantly. "Now you listen here. I am a preacher and if I ever did cuss, not saying I have, I've forgotten how to do it after all these years."

With a wise look on his face well beyond his years, the kid says, "Preacher, you keep on pulling that rope and it'll all come back to ya."

Art School

Junior always thought he had some artistic talent so he enrolls in a community education art class. At the first class meeting, the instructor assigns the students to draw a picture of one of their family members for their first grade.

The next week, Junior submits a portrait of Pa, but when he gets the picture back, the instructor has given him a C minus. Junior thinks that he deserves better than that so he approaches the art teacher to ask why his grade is so low.

"The proportions are all incorrect," replies the teacher. "The head is all wrong, the feet are too big, and it's not possible for anyone to be that ugly."

The next week Junior brings Pa in to talk to the instructor about the grade. The instructor takes one look at Pa and says, "Okay, an A minus!"

One Dollar Per Point

A professor is giving a big test to his students. He hands out all of the tests and goes back to his desk to wait. Once the test is over, the students all hand the tests back in.

As he is sorting them, the professor notices that one of the students has attached a $100 bill to his test with a note saying "One dollar per point."

The next class the professor hands the tests back out.

One student got back his test and $64 change.

Interesting

During the final exam, the professor notices that one student keeps looking at his hand before writing down an answer on his test. This goes on throughout the entire exam, leaving the professor no other choice than to interrogate the student's test-taking habit.

"Young man," the professor begins. "Is there something interesting written on your palm?"

"Not at all," the student replies. "It's all pretty boring."

The Three Bears

Mama Bear, Papa Bear and Baby Bear are sitting down at Goldie's Restaurant finishing up their meal when the waiter presents them with their check. Papa Bear tells the waiter he has no money to pay for the meal. The waiter goes to the kitchen and returns to tell them, "Goldie says everybody has to pay. If you can't pay for your meal, then you must clean dishes."

A little later Mama, Papa and Baby Bear are in the kitchen cleaning dishes. "How is it, Papa?" asks Mama Bear.

"Not bad," says Papa Bear. "If I had known we could clean dishes, we wouldn't have tried to mooch a meal."

Charity Starts At Church

After a church service, a little boy told the Pastor, "When I grow up, I'm going to give you some money."

"Well, thank you," the pastor replies. "That would be very nice of you." He smiles, "But why?"

"My daddy says you're the poorest preacher we've ever had."

Is the Bible True?

There once is a very religious lady that has to do a lot of traveling for her business, so she does a lot of flying. Flying makes her very-very nervous, so she always takes her Bible along with her to read as it helps relax her on the long flights.

One time, she is sitting next to a man. When he sees her pull out her Bible, he gives a little chuckle and smirk and goes back to what he is doing.

After awhile, he turns to her and asks, "You don't really believe all that stuff in there do you?"

The lady replies, "Of course I do. It is the Bible."

He says, "Well, what about the whale story?"

Shereplies, "Oh, Jonah. Yes, I believe that, it is in the Bible."

He asks, "Well, how did he survive inside the whale?"

The lady says, "Well, I don't really know. I guess when I get to heaven, I will ask him."

"What if he isn't in heaven?" the man asks sarcastically.

"Then you can ask him," replies the lady.

Starling honored with Leadership Award

Marcum & Wallace Hospital (MWMH) President & CEO Susan Starling was honored with the Hall Render Leadership in Healthcare Award by MediStar Awards in Louisville on October 25, 2016. The Hall Render Leadership in Healthcare Award is presented to a progressive and entrepreneurial individual who is not afraid to take risks and whose job performance is considered exemplary by providers, patients and peers.

"Rural healthcare is a passion of mine," said Starling. "I grew up in an urban area with the choice of any hospital that we wanted to go to. When I moved to Kentucky over thirty years ago and began working in a rural hospital, I learned the importance of access to healthcare. When I began working in administration, I learned the importance of advocating for rural. I have dedicated the past sixteen years to Marcum & Wallace Hospital and the communities we serve. Our patients deserve access to healthcare, just the same as someone who lives in an urban area."

During Starling's tenure at MWMH, she has raised the quality of care, expanded services, improved access and transformed MWMH from a hospital that was closing their doors to a financially stable organization. Through her leadership the hospital has achieved notable successes including becoming the first Kentucky hospital to be licensed as a critical access hospital and the first hospital with a Level 4 Trauma Center. As a result of her work, MWMH has received over three million dollars in grant funding. This funding has supported programs that focus on improving local access to healthcare.

Starling is currently serving as the Chair of the Kentucky Hospital Association. She has dedicated her career to sharing the rural story, educating and advocating for the healthcare needs of the rural community.

"I appreciate the support of my family and the team at Marcum and Wallace," said Starling. "We are family and friends caring for family and friends. I want the children in our community to see that there are opportunities to succeed."

Letters to the Editor:

Thanks to the DAV and the American Legion

You may have noticed the banners that honor our veterans hanging in Irvine and Ravenna. A donation was made to the local Disabled American Veterans - Chapter 94 for the specific purpose of purchasing the banners to honor our veterans. These banners were to be donated to the cities of Irvine and Ravenna to be displayed on Veterans Day, Memorial Day, and other days when they were appropriate. The DAV would like to thank Randy Powell for his excellent work on this project.

The DAV would also like to thank the American Legion for their work in planning and conducting ceremonies at the Ravenna Park on Veterans Day and Memorial Day, to the American Legion Ladies Auxiliary for all of their services to our veterans, and to the City of Ravenna for hosting these annual ceremonies, and for all of their work and dedication to maintaining the beauty of Veterans Memorial Park.

Twin City Kruzerz seeks to help children's home

The Twin City Kruzerz would like to thank everyone that helped us to make this a great year. The Club supports many charity events every year. This year the Twin City Kruzerz attended one event that really touched our hearts. It was the 1st Annual Dessie Scott Children's Home Car Show. The Twin City Kruzerz will be making a monetary donation. Anyone interested in making a monetary donation may contact Melvin Williams - president of Twin City Kruzerz, at 723-5447 or see Tobo Bryant - vice-president, at Bryant's Paint Store in Ravenna. Make checks payable to Buckhorn Children and Family Services. All donations must be in by December 15, 2016.

Thank You!
Twin City Kruzerz

NO OPEN BURNING

Due to increased threat for fire due to the dry weather conditions, there will be NO open burning within Estill County until further notice. Violators will be subject to penalties which is enforced by the Kentucky Division of Forestry per KRS 149.400.
