had received questions from some people about gifts that board members received back in January from the architect and from Mr. Saylor and if that had influenced their vote on the recallable nickel.

Mr. Saylor responded by saying that if the board recalled, the shirts that were given to them at that time was a practice that had been done for many years before he was hired. If he recalled correctly, all of the board members had paid for those shirts.

Bicknell replied that Saylor should have stated during the meeting that the board members had paid for those shirts instead of implying that they were purchased with federal funding which was illegal.

Bicknell also stated that he had turned this into the 'feds' back in 2012 that they had been receiving gifts and that it had been a long practice and that it did influence his vote with the architect.

"I don't understand why you can't vote for something. You are elected by the constituents in your district, so you can vote on any item on the agenda," said Mr. Saylor.

Bicknell said that he felt there was a conflict of interest on some of items on the agenda according to the state and federal authorities. Saylor responded by saying that he wished that the federal authorities would

The citation says that Mr. Abney instructed the informant to sell the drugs for retail pricing, and he would charge the informant at wholesale prices. This would allow the informant to keep the difference.

The citation says there was a second meeting between Mr. Abney and the informant to renegotiate pricing.

It adds that Mr. Abney had sold oxycodone to another confidential informant behind Estill Springs Elementary School on a previous date.

Abney allegedly set up another transaction when the confidential informant needed more drugs, after the sales were complete.

IPD says there were meth and heroin test kits in the safe that tested positive for each drug.

Mr. Abney reportedly had marijuana pipes, small plastic baggies used to package drugs, and a digital scale.

The citation states that Mr. Abney forced the confidential informant to use illegal drugs during the purchase in order to cover up the transaction.

It adds that Mr. Abney conspired with his son, Scott, to purchase a shotgun. Scott Abney is a convicted felon.

Ronnie Abney was arraigned by video in Estill District Court on Monday. He pleaded not-guilty to all 12 charges. The court appointed a public defender for him.

He is scheduled to return to court on August 16 for a preliminary hearing.

Betty Abney was charged with trafficking in a controlled substance, first degree (oxycodone) and trafficking in a controlled substance, third degree (xanax).

Her citation states that she assisted Ronnie Abney in counting the oxycodone and xanax pills to transfer them to the confidential informant.

Mrs. Abney was released on bail Monday from the Clark County Jail. The amount of the bail and her court dates were not available.
