Farm Harvest Safety

Kentucky Agriculture Commissioner Ryan Quarles proclaimed the week of September 17-23 as Farm Safety and Health Week to call attention to the hazards unique to farming and encourage all Kentuckians to put safety first.

Fall harvest season is a busy time for Kentucky farmers and their families. According to UK Extension Professor and Agricultural Safety & Health Specialist Mark Purschwitz, it also is a peak season for agricultural injuries and an important time for farm families and the public to pay attention to safety.

Long working hours can lead to fatigue and stress, making farm workers less alert to potential safety hazards. Take breaks when operating equipment for an extended period of time. If possible, trade off with other workers for a change of pace. Dress appropriately for the job. Avoid loose clothing, jackets with dangling strings and sweatshirts that could get entangled in moving equipment. Entanglement in moving parts, especially power take-offs or other chain and belt drivers, is a major fall harvest hazard. Inspect machinery and equipment to be sure shields and guards on moving parts are in place and in good repair. Replace ineffective or missing safety equipment. Before getting off equipment, disengage the power and wait for moving parts to completely stop. When possible, shut off the engine. It is always a good idea to take the ignition key with you so another person does not unexpectedly start equipment while you are performing maintenance or repair. If you are working under any piece of equipment, such as a header unit, always use the jack stand or hydraulic cylinder locks to prevent it from suddenly falling and pinning you. Be sure all safety locks are operational.

A pinhole-size hydraulic leak can cause severe tissue damage. If a farmer is injected with oil from a hydraulic leak, they should seek immediate medical assistance. The oil must be surgically removed, and delays can result in serious infections and possible amputations. Always use paper or cardboard to check for hydraulic leaks.

Tractor overturns are the leading cause of farm deaths. To prevent these tragedies, equip older model tractors with a roll-over protective structure. Most tractors manufactured after the late 1960s or early 1970s can be equipped with a ROPS for a reasonable price. Make it a habit to use the seat belt to ensure you remain inside the zone of protection provided by the ROPS or safety cab. The seat belt also will keep you from being thrown off the tractor if you hit an obstacle. Being thrown off the tractor and run over is the second leading cause of tractor deaths. Never allow any extra riders on tractors or equipment. Keep bystanders away from operating equipment. Also, be aware of people who may have come into the area. Always check around equipment before starting or moving it. Carry a fire extinguisher on all tractors and self-propelled equipment. Periodically check extinguishers to be sure they are pressurized and in good condition. To prevent fires, be sure equipment is clean and hoses and fuel systems are in good shape and not leaking. Remove trash and debris around engine components.

Farm vehicles on public roads are annually involved in thousands of injury accidents in the United States, and more than 200 collisions involving farm machinery on public roads occur in Kentucky every year. Thus, people driving farm machinery and those driving vehicles should be especially careful and watchful. Keep slow-moving-vehicle emblems and extremity markings clean and bright to help motorists notice equipment. Replace faded slow moving vehicle (SMV) emblems and check headlights, tail-lights and flashing lights for satisfactory operation. To alert on-coming drivers, use reflectors or reflective tape when the edges of towed equipment extend beyond the left side of a tractor. When possible, pull completely off the road to let a line of traffic pass.

Since it may be difficult to anticipate the operational intentions of farm machinery on the roadway, other drivers need to watch for unmarked field entrances or other places the tractor driver might be planning to enter. A tractor may need to move to the right to complete a left turn so do not assume the tractor driver wants you to pass when moving to the right side. Pass only in a designated passing zone or when the other driver signals and completely pulls off the road. Please be patient as farmers travel the roads to bring in the harvest.

Succulents prefer the bright light of a south-facing window, but the leaves will turn brown or white if the light is too intense. Ideal temperatures would be from 70-85° F during the day to as low as 50-55° F at night. Water regularly but lightly, as keeping the roots soaking wet will kill the plant. Succulents should be potted in a fast-draining soil mixture that's designed for cacti; or make your own, using regular potting soil mixed with perlite to increase aeration and drainage.

Birding BITS BY Cindy Brook
Vacation Birds
People often ask me if birds will come back to their yards if they stop feeding them when they go on vacation. First, I tell them birds are not dependent on us for food and do quite nicely using their God-given instincts. And second, of course they'll come back!
