Maudie's Naughties

Lost Contact Lens

A teenager loses a contact lens while playing basketball in his driveway. After a fruitless search, he tells his mother the lens is nowhere to be found.

Undaunted, she goes outside and in a few minutes, returns with the lens in her hand.

"How did you manage to find it, Mom?" the teenager asks.

"We weren't looking for the same thing," she replies. "You were looking for a small piece of plastic. I was looking for $150."

Medical Tests

Silas goes to see his Doctor for consultation over some lab tests. "I've got good news and bad news!" says the Doctor.

"Give me the good news first!" says Silas. "The good news is your tests indicated you only have 24 hours to live!"

"Geeze!" says Silas, "If that's the good news, what's the bad news?"

"You were supposed to come in yesterday!!"

How Old Am I?

A very healthy, spry-looking 95-year-old man moves into a nursing home. He walks up to a man walking slowly down the hall and says, "How old do you think I am?"

The man answers: "I'd say 60."
"Nope, I'm 95!" the man boasts.

Down the hall, he sees a woman in a room watching TV and walks up to her and asks her to guess his age.

She says, "Pull down your pants, and I'll tell you."
"You can't do that," he says. "No way!"

"Pull down your pants and I'll prove it," she says. He does, and she says, "You're 95."

The man gives her an astonished look and asks, "How could you know that?"

She shrugs and says, "I heard you tell the fellow in the hall."

Gifts for Mom

The first son said, "I built a big house for our mother."
The second said, "I sent her a Mercedes with a driver."

The third smiled and said, "I've got you both beat. You remember how mom enjoyed reading the Bible? And you know she can't see very well. So I sent her a remarkable parrot that recites the entire Bible. It took elders in the church 12 years to teach him. He's one of a kind. Mama just has to name the chapter and verse, and the parrot recites it."

Soon thereafter, mom sent out her letters of thanks: "Milton," she wrote one son, "The house you built is so huge. I live in only one room, but I have to clean the whole house."

"Gerald," she wrote to another, "I am too old to travel. I stay most of the time at home, so I rarely use the Mercedes. And the driver is so rude!"

"Dearest Donald," she wrote to her third son, "You have the good sense to know what your mother likes. The chicken was delicious."

Contempt of Court

A New Yorker was forced to take a day off from work to appear for a minor traffic summons.

He grew increasingly restless as he waited hour after endless hour for his case to be heard. When his name was called late in the afternoon, he stood before the judge, only to hear that court would be adjourned for the rest of the afternoon and he would have to return the next day.

"What for?!?!" he snapped at the judge. His honor, equally irked by a tedious day and sharp query, roared out loud: "Twenty dollars contempt of court! That's why!"

Then, noticing the man checking his wallet, the judge relented: "That's all right. You don't have to pay now."

The young man replied, "I know. But I'm just seeing if I have enough for two more words."

Milk Bath

Trixie is talking to a girl at work and can't help but notice how pretty and beautiful the co-worker's skin is. So she asks her outright what makes her skin so soft and beautiful.

"Well, once a week I fill a bathtub up with milk and soak in it."

So Trixie picks up Mitzie and they drive out to the farm to talk to Howard's dad about it.

"I'd like to buy a lot of milk," says Trixie.

"How much?" asks Farmer Green.

"Well, quite a lot because I'm going to soak in it."

"Do you need pasturized?" he asks.

"No," replies Trixie. "Just up to my shoulders."

Library Happenings

Estill Public Library

by Shannon Horn

We slowed things down this week, so that we could regroup after Summer Reading. I didn't have any of my normal programming and I must say it feels like this week was about nine days long. It usually goes by rather quickly. I do have a few things to share from this week, but we have some fun programs coming up later this month that everyone needs to know about too!

Crafternoon

Sandy Savage will be here again this Wednesday at 1:30 to teach an art class on perspective. You do not have to sign up for this class in order to participate. Just show up a couple minutes early and get a seat. Materials will be provided, so you don't even have to worry about bringing your own supplies.

Book Signing with Angela Crow

Estill's own Angela Crow will be here to talk about and sign some of her books. This program is Friday the 16th from 6:00-8:00. This program is open to all ages and is completely free.

Walk Slim

Our Walk Slim program has started once again. It is every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at 4:30. The time has changed. Originally, the time was 5:00, but it was decided to change the time to 4:30. The meeting room will also be available every morning, with the exception of Thursday, from 9:00 to 10:00. If you would like to come in and use the room during that time we will set it up for you.

Teen Time

We've planned several fun activities for our teens this month. On the 16th we will be making candy sushi. The teens have been asking about having another anime day, so I'm giving it to them along with food. The following Friday we will be testing our tap water. Now this is not because of the boil water advisory. I've had this planned for about a month. We are going to do several tests on not only our tap water, but our ability to determine which tastes better, tap water, bottled water or filtered water. I am really excited about this event and the experiment part of it. The final Friday of this month we will be putting our art skills to the test using two Microsoft programs. Now I've mixed reviews on Paint 3D, so I want to test it out with the teens. We will also be using Microsoft Paint, just to show the teens what it was like back in the day when you grew up without internet; which may cause this some pain to even imagine life without WIFI. We shall see.

Tinker Tuesday

On Tuesday, the 20th, we will be trying out a new program for kids ages 7-12. We will have old computers here that the kids will be able to take apart. This is to get them intrigued about electronics and how they work. I would eventually like to do a coding club and maybe even some robotics. This is just a start to help get the kids interested! The program will begin at 3:30.

We have so many fun things going on here at the library, we would love to have you stop by. Or check out our new website estillpublib.org!

Arts Council Seeks Chorus Director

The Estill Arts Council is seeking a Director for the Community Chorus. The purpose of the chorus is to promote choral music and stimulate musical growth in and around the community of Irvine, Ravenna and Estill County and for the enrichment of its residents through participation and appreciation of the musical arts. A candidate should be passionate about music and have a background in vocal music. The Chorus holds two concerts a year, one in the spring and one at Christmas.
